

“Last month, I called on all of our elected officials to work together to end senseless gun violence, and I was glad to see our Governor took such a strong stand against assault weapons in today’s speech. I remain committed to addressing gun violence swiftly and comprehensively here in Washington, and look forward to working with Governor Cuomo on the issue.”